

Young Playwrights Festival Winner

5/18/17

Benjamin Weber, a senior at South High School, was selected to participate in the Guest Playwright Observation program for his play, Coffeehouse Bridge, at the recent 12th annual O’Neill Young Playwrights Festival, held at the Eugene O’Neill Theater Center in Waterford, CT. He was one of 16 young playwrights selected for this honor from 186 nationwide entries. The Festival is open to one-act plays written by middle and high school students. Plays must be approximately 15 minutes in length. Style, content, and genre are up to the playwright. Coffeehouse Bridge was also one of the productions at South High’s annual Young Directors One Act Play Festival, held earlier this month. Faculty advisor for One Acts is Thomas Marr, South High drama teacher.
